LESSON 4: Discuss effects of violence on viewers

A Understand from context

- An aggressive
- encourage
- murder
- harm
- prevent
- a consequence

B Confirm content

- Viewing violence can cause a growth in aggression in children; children may find violence "normal" and accept it in society; children may do violent things themselves.
- Most harmful are realistic violent action programs and movies, and violent cartoons.
- Some long-term effects of viewing violence are that children who view violence may be more likely to behave aggressively as teenagers; they may commit violent crimes as adults.
- A bad message that may come from violent programs is that violence is ok or normal.
- Parents can prevent young children from seeing any violent programs. For older children, parents can limit how many violent shows they see and discuss violent shows with them to tell them that violence is not ok.
